

Attention: The Editor

For immediate release

6 November 2020

FlyWestair connects Windhoek to Walvis Bay and Walvis Bay to Ondangwa – Starting 20 November 2020

FlyWestair is pleased to announce the introduction of a scheduled flight between Eros Airport in Windhoek and Walvis Bay every Friday and Sunday, starting on the 20th of November 2020.

“For the first time in years, Namibians and travellers will have the convenience of a direct flight between Eros Airport, conveniently situated in Windhoek’s city centre, and Walvis Bay. In addition, the schedule will allow residents of the Coast to travel to the North, as the schedule will connect to Ondangwa every Friday and return to the Coast every Sunday,” says Mr. Fredrico Ribeiro, Business Development Manager at FlyWestair.

The schedule was devised with convenience in mind. Passengers can travel both ways over weekends, allowing individuals working in Walvis Bay and living in Ondangwa or Windhoek to go home for a weekend. In addition, Windhoekers can break away for a weekend at the Coast in a convenient, safe and time-efficient manner.

The new route will offer a link between Eros Airport and the Coast, a route that has not been available in many years. This convenient travel option from Eros will cut out travelling time to and from Hosea Kutako International Airport. Additionally, the duration of the flight is a mere 30 minutes, saving business and leisure travellers even more time. The route will be operated with a pressurised twin engine aircraft or Embraer EMB 145 jet regional jet aircraft, depending on passenger loads.

Less than a month ago, FlyWestair was the first Namibian airline to resume scheduled flights between Cape Town and Windhoek, twice weekly on Mondays and Fridays, and recently, became the first privately owned Namibian airline to connect Windhoek to Johannesburg every Tuesday and Thursday. Since resuming our flights, we have maintained an on-time dispatch reliability of 99.3%, and have carried more than 3,000 passengers. By providing a vital link between Windhoek and South Africa, FlyWestair is supporting the revival of travel and the tourism industry in Namibia.

Tickets on all FlyWestair flights are refundable and flexible and can be booked directly on the Westair portal or through your travel agent.

Bookings: Westair Reservation Office: +264 83 937 8247 or fly@westair.com.na or

Online bookings: www.flywestair.com

For more information, contact media@westair.com.na

End.